

Pathway to Biblical Understanding | “The Story the Bible is Telling”

Week 3: Connecting the Old & New Testament

Speaker: Breanna Turpin

Terminology

- Archetype: A perfect example of something.
- Type: An Old Testament person, event, or institution that prefigures or foreshadows something to come.
- Antitype: The New Testament reality, fulfillment, or completion of that original Old Testament shadow.
- Typology: The method of biblical interpretation that connects these OT Types to their NT Antitypes.

Guess Who?

TYPE:

- Raised in a royal household
- This person married someone from a different land
- Spent time as both a prince and a shepherd

ANTITYPE:

TYPE:

- I hold two offices that were usually kept separate.
- My genealogy is not recorded in the biblical account.
- A victorious traveler honored me with a tithe.
- I offered bread and wine.

ANTITYPE:

TYPE:

- My rise to power began with a betrayal.
- My sins are not written about in scripture.
- False accusations led to my imprisonment.
- The people who wronged me eventually depended on me for survival.

ANTITYPE:

TYPE:

- I spent time hiding near a brook during a national crisis.
- A widow's household became my refuge.
- One contest on a mountain became the defining moment of my ministry.
- I fled into the wilderness after one of my greatest victories.

ANTITYPE:

TYPE:

- My ministry included both acts of compassion and acts of judgment.
- A military commander was healed after following my instructions.
- My influence reached kings, commoners, and foreign leaders alike.
- Even after my death, a miracle was associated with my remains.

ANTITYPE:

Pathway to Biblical Understanding | “The Story the Bible is Telling”

Week 3: Connecting the Old & New Testament
Speaker: Breanna Turpin

NOTES:

[illegible]